If we've learned anything from our last two technological waves—smartphones and social media—then we know one thing: Those who are probably going to be most harmed by AI are our kids.

AI is already taking over their education. It's trying to build emotional relationships with them. And it might take away their jobs. But our theology tells us AI doesn't surprise or alarm God. He is sovereign over this too.

So how can we calmly and clearly see what's happening and then protect, guide, and prepare our children?

Join Sarah Eekhoff Zylstra as she sorts out fears, finds the facts, and proposes a faithful way to parent in the age of AI.

Toddler and Preschool Families

It would greatly help our volunteers if you could send sippy cups or water bottles to class with your child. The children can have a hard time using cups in class that don't have lids, leading to many spills. Please ensure they are labeled with their names. Thank you!

Sunday, May 31, is Family Worship Sunday

Kindergarten through 3rd grade will be in the worship service the whole hour. There will be activity bags for all the children to use during the service.
